

Acknowledgements

We are deeply grateful for the many colleagues who have made this book possible and would like to acknowledge their contributions.

We thank Fred Rica, Principal of Harding Elementary School, Kenilworth New Jersey, whose vision made the study possible, and the faculty and administration at Kenilworth who gave their support and encouragement to students and researchers.

We thank the many graduate students, video crew and videographers, especially Roger Conant, Ann Heisch, Lynda Smith, and Elena Steencken, as well as the dedicated researchers for their hard work and insights: Alice S. Alston, Robert B. Davis, John M. Francisco, Barbara H. Glass, Regina D. Kiczek, Judith H. Landis, Amy M. Martino, Ethel M. Muter, John J. O'Brien, Marcia O'Brien, Ralph Pantozzi, Manjit K. Sran, Lynn D. Tarlow, and Dina Yankelewitz.

We are particularly grateful to Robert Speiser for his enthusiasm and support, as well as his invaluable help with task design.

We thank the Sussex County Community College students who participated in the study.

We thank the staff of the Robert B. Davis Institute for Learning, and in particular, Marjory F. Palius for research assistance and continued generous help, Robert Sigley for his overall knowledge and management of the collection as well as his invaluable technical help, and Manjit K. Sran for her wonderful illustrations and artwork.

We are grateful for support for the longitudinal study by: (1) the National Science Foundation with grants: MDR-9053597 (directed by R. B. Davis and C. A. Maher) and REC-9814846 (directed by C.A. Maher), and (2) from the New Jersey Department of Higher Education, the Johnson and Johnson Foundation, the Exxon Education Foundation, and the AT&T Foundation. Any opinions, findings, and conclusions or recommendations expressed in this book are those of the authors and do not necessarily reflect the views of the funding agencies.
